

AMCC OBEDIENCE STATISTICS
Ruth Kellogg

I was all set to do the Obedience stats for 2006 – when I realized that I hadn’t done 2005 yet! Oh my goodness – quite a stack of Event Results to go through. The few who know what’s been going on at my home will certainly understand my oversight; for everyone else I will explain that I’ve been rather pre-occupied! My home and property has been going through (and still is) a major renovation. Finally have a “proper” kennel building for my Malamutes and finally have more room for my own living space (including a “real” office!). I’ve done 99% of the finishing work in the home – lots of hours. Admittedly, the obedience stats weren’t high on my list of priority things.

I, like many members, have noted in Dogs in Canada that the obedience participants are dropping. 2005 was the first year that I saw many trials that had “no entries for this class”. With a breed that isn’t seen much in competitive obedience, there were even less with only 2 dogs earning qualifying scores in the novice level and three at the open level.

Again, the top Obedience dog for 2005 is A. Roussel’s Nordicligh’s Sky Is The Limit CDX, AGN.
