CORRECTED AMCC OBEDIENCE STATS 2011

Competitive obedience requires that dogs earn a minimum of 170/200 at three different trials under at least two different judges. Rally obedience requires that dogs earn a minimum of 70/100 at three different trials under at least two different judges.

The star behind a score indicates the trial that the dog completed the title. If there is only one or two scores listed, it means that the dog earned qualifying scores in previous years which are taken into consideration when the average score is tallied. It is from the average score of completed titles that the rankings are determined.
